Strategies Group Inc. Announces Partnership with Trackware Inc, to sell their Award Winning EarthWorks Excavation Software.

Suwanee, GA – May 29, 2009 – Strategies Group Inc. is pleased to announce their relationship with Trackware Inc, to sell EarthWorks Excavation Software throughout the Southeast. Since 1992, EarthWorks has been used by thousands of companies worldwide to perform excavation takeoffs up to five times faster than the traditional “by hands” method.

“We are excited to be able to offer Earthworks to our clients whose business may be able to take advantage of the government stimulus package. Strategies group always looks for products that stand out amongst all others, add value and solve real problems. Earthworks is definitely one of those products.” says Craig Trussell, VP of Sales and Marketing for Strategies Group.

Trackware Inc. is based in Albuquerque New Mexico and they created Earthworks, their premier excavation estimating program, fourteen years ago. Their goal was to produce a product with the perfect balance of power and usability. The result is Earthworks software requires minimal training, has high usability, a deep feature set, comprehensive verification tools and is affordable.

The result of Trackware’s effort to build a superior product is evidenced by the fact that all though there are several thousand Earthwork’s users around the world, Trackware averages fewer than three support calls a day.

Earthworks excavation software will be available for Strategies Group customers immediately and those wishing to learn more should contact Strategies Group directly.
